Profile

A passionate designer with experience in a wide variety of productivity programs and content management and production systems.

I am a 30-year-old native Seattleite who has a lifelong interest in video games, which has spurred me to an interest in UI/UX and web design. My experience stems from extensive education as well as a hobbyist blog.

Experience

2011 - 2013

Student Tutor - Central Washington University

Duties included instruction of fellow students on several different subjects, working independently and in groups. This job was important for the development of my interpersonal skills.

2014 - 2019

Sales Agent - Tim Robinson Artist

Working independently and without supervision at the Pike Place Market, selling paintings and prints. This job honed my customer service skills, and proves that I can work independently and solve problems on my own. In addition, I created a brand new website for the business.
